Three hours in my city

Are you planning a layover at Schipol airport? If the answer is yes, make sure you visit Amsterdam. This beautiful city is only a short train ride away. We asked three people who live there: "We have three hours in your city. What are the best things to do?"

Anika, 26

It depends on the weather. Check the forecast when you arrive at the airport. If the weather is bad, visit one of our famous cafés. Try some bitterballen – it's a kind of Dutch meat snack – or have some pancakes with Dutch cheese. I'm sure you're going to love Dutch food. If it's sunny, spend some time at the flower market. The flower shops are on small boats, and it is also a great place to buy gifts. You will return to the airport feeling happy and with many colorful pictures to look at on the rest of your trip.

Hugo, 34

Take a ride on a tram. A tram is a kind of electric bus that rides on metal tracks on the street. Amsterdam has a great tram system – I use it every day to get to work. I think the number 2 route is best for tourists. That's the tram that drives past many of the main Amsterdam sights, like the Van Gogh art gallery. The trams leave Amsterdam Central Station regularly, and tickets are not expensive. You can lock up your luggage in a locker so you don't have to carry it. And you won't be stressed about getting back to the airport in time — you can get off the tram at any stop and go back to the station on tram 2 in the opposite direction. It's perfect.

Issac, 23

The best way to see Amsterdam is to rent a bike. Everyone in Amsterdam loves to bike! You can rent bikes at the main train station – it's easy. There are also lockers at the station where you can leave your luggage, although they're very expensive. On a bike, you can see Amsterdam's beautiful buildings and canals. You can see the old houses pretty well from the street, but a few are also open as museums. If you have children, visit one of the large parks. Vondelpark has a great playground where children can climb trees.
