Task 1: Read the passage and choose correct answer

Tom had always been scared of dogs. When he was younger, a big dog barked at him, and since then, he felt nervous whenever he saw a dog. Even small dogs made him uncomfortable. Tom's friends loved dogs and always talked about how friendly they were, but Tom couldn't help feeling afraid.

One day, Tom's friend Lucy asked him to come over to her house. Tom was hesitant because he knew Lucy had a dog. Lucy noticed Tom's worried look and assured him that her dog, Max, was very gentle and would not hurt him. After thinking about it for a while, Tom decided to visit Lucy.

When Tom arrived, Max barked excitedly, and Tom felt his heart race. But Lucy calmly told Max to sit, and Max obeyed. Tom saw that Max was wagging his tail and seemed happy to see him. Slowly, Tom reached out his hand, and Max licked it gently. Tom was surprised at how soft Max's fur was and how friendly he seemed.

Over time, Tom's fear began to fade. Lucy showed Tom how to play with Max, and soon, Tom was throwing a ball for Max to fetch. By the end of the visit, Tom realized that not all dogs were scary. He even started to enjoy being around Max.

Although Tom still felt a little nervous around other dogs, he was proud of himself for facing his fear. He knew that with time, he could become more comfortable around dogs.
