I. Read the text below, and answer questions 1- 10 by marking 1, 2, 3, 4 on your answer sheet.

The Sparrow

Once upon a time, there was a nonconforming sparrow who refused to fly south for the winter. Eventually, the cold weather forced him to start his journey southward. However, it became so cold that it fell to the ground in a barnyard and was nearly frozen. A passing cow then defecated on the sparrow, which initially seemed like the end for the bird. Surprisingly, the warmth of the manure thawed his wings, and the sparrow felt warm and happy again. The bird started to sing in gratitude.

Unfortunately, it singing attracted the attention of a large cat, who investigated the sounds, discovered the sparrow under the manure, and promptly ate him.

This story illustrates the irony of finding solace in unexpected places but also the harsh reality that good fortune can quickly turn into misfortune.
