Shall I put you through to her?

Sure.

Do you want to speak to her?

Thank you.

USING FIRST NAMES

Whether we use first names or surnames (family names) with people in English normally depends on the relationship we have with them. Here are some tips.

- As a general rule, do what the other person does. So if the other person uses your first name, use their first name when you speak to them. One important exception: if the other person has a much higher status than you (for example if you are a secretary and they are a manager) then sometimes it is better to use their surname, even if they use your first name. It depends on the company culture.
- If it is the very first time you speak to a person, you should probably use their surname.
- If you have had contact with the person before (even if it was only on the phone), you can normally use first names.
- If the person is an important business contact, you should definitely try to use first names, if appropriate. It is a sign of a close working relationship.

- 6 Look at – or listen to – the three phone calls in exercise 1 again. Who uses first names, and who uses surnames? Why?

GIVING 'BAD' NEWS

It is very common for native speakers to use I'm afraid or I'm sorry when giving 'bad' news, for example when saying someone is not available.

I'm afraid Mr Seide is in a meeting.

I'm sorry, but Mr Seide is in a meeting.

If you do not use I'm afraid or I'm sorry, the sentence sounds very direct and impolite to a native speaker.

The word actually is also often used to make a statement more polite. For example, it can be used:

- instead of saying the word no. A: Does he have your phone number? B: Actually, I don't think he does.
- when we change the subject (e.g. when we change from small talk to talking business). Your holiday sounds fantastic. Listen, Sandra, I actually wanted to speak to Maria.
- to say something which is inconvenient or annoying for the other person, in a polite way. Can I call you back? I'm actually talking to someone else on the other line.

Careful: actually is not the same as current(ly)!

7 Rewrite the highlighted sentences below with I'm afraid or actually.

- 1 I'm trying to get through to Jake Woodward. He asked me to call him this morning.
I'm actually trying to get through ...
- 2 Marie Dupont. You're from France, aren't you? – No, I'm from Belgium.
- 3 Can I talk to Kevin Shields? – He's not here.
- 4 Would you like to leave a message? – No, I'll call back later.
- 5 Can I call you tomorrow? – I won't be in the office tomorrow.
- 6 Heather's line is engaged. Shall I tell her to call you back?

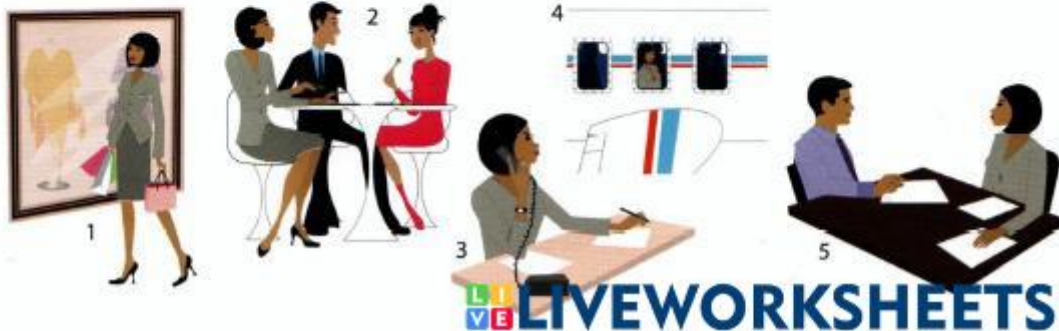

8 Look at the situations below and make excuses for why your boss doesn't want to come to the phone. Try to use I'm afraid, I'm sorry, or actually in each sentence. Remember that you don't always need to tell the truth when making an excuse!

EXAMPLE

*I'm afraid she's unavailable.
She's actually out of the office today.*

EXCUSES

*having lunch
out of the office today/this afternoon on a business trip in a meeting
on another line*

9 Work with a partner to practise the dialogue below.

A	B
Answer phone.	Say hello and make some small talk.
Respond.	Change subject and ask to speak to somebody.
Person is unavailable. Say why and offer to take message.	Leave message.
Take message.	Say thank you and goodbye.

10 Often when we telephone we have to deal with communication problems. Listen to the dialogues and match them with the problems. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

- | | CALL |
|--|--------------------------|
| a The caller is speaking too quietly. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| b The person called didn't understand what the caller said. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| c The person called wants the caller to say something again. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| d The caller is speaking too fast. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| e The caller has called someone by mistake. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| f The person called doesn't know how to write a word. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| g The phone itself is making a lot of noise. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| h The previous call was cut off and the caller has to call the other person back. | <input type="checkbox"/> |

Now complete the extracts from the dialogues with words from the box. Then listen again to check your answers.

OUTPUT

What advice would you give to someone to help them telephone successfully? Work with a partner to make a list of tips. Then read the article and discuss the questions.

Successful telephoning

Phone calls can often be challenging in your own language, but when you're speaking a foreign language they are even more difficult. There's no body language to help you, the audio quality is not always perfect, and there is more time pressure than in a face-to-face conversation. Below are some tips to make telephoning in English less stressful.

- 1 If you have to make a difficult phone call, spend a few minutes preparing first. Think about what you want from the phone call. What might the other person say? Make notes of English phrases you can use during the call.
- 2 Try to relax. Make sure you have enough time for the call, and don't hurry. It's better to have a successful ten-minute call than an unsuccessful five-minute call.
- 3 Sometimes receiving an unexpected call can be very stressful. To give yourself some time to prepare for the call, you might want to tell a 'white lie' (I'm sorry, I'm actually in a meeting right now. Can I call you back in ten minutes?) and call back when you feel more confident.
- 4 It's important to make a little small talk with the other person before you talk business, but don't spend too long chatting. Get to the point of the call quickly. If you're talking to a native English speaker, listen for words like well, so, and anyway – these are signals that it's time to talk business.
- 5 Speak more slowly and at a lower pitch than you would during a face-to-face conversation. It makes you sound confident, helps the other person to understand you, and calms you down if you are nervous.
- 6 Don't be afraid to ask a caller to repeat something (I'm sorry, I still didn't catch that. Could you say it again more slowly?). It's better for the caller to repeat a piece of information five times than for you to write down the wrong information.
- 7 Smile! Although it sounds strange, the other person can hear if you are smiling – it makes your voice sound friendlier.

OVER TO YOU

What is the thing you find most difficult on the telephone? How could you make it easier? Can you think of five things you could do to improve your telephoning skills in English? For example, record English calls and listen to them with your English teacher, or telephone an English-speaking friend for practice.
