

Choose the correct option.

1. There are (a few/much/many) carrots in the soup, just enough for flavour.
2. I like my tea with (a few/many/little) sugar, because I don't like it too sweet.
3. There aren't (many/little/few) grapes left in the bowl.
4. She needs (a lot of/much/little) vegetables for the salad, because she's making a big one.
5. There is (much/a few/little) butter on the toast, so it's not too greasy.
6. We have (few/many/little) cheese left, so it's not enough to make a pizza.
7. There aren't (much/many/little) students in class today.
8. He only put (few/little/many) salt on his fries, so they taste a bit bland.
9. There is (a lot of/few/many) ice cream in the freezer, so we can all have seconds.
10. There are (a lot of/few/little) plates on the table, so we have enough for all the guests.