

How Watson learned the trick

a Choose the correct option

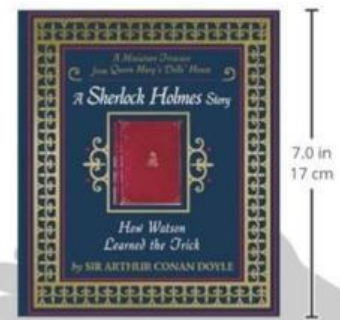

1. What was Watson observing about Holmes at the breakfast table?

2. How did Watson describe Holmes's tricks?

3. What detail led Watson to conclude that Holmes was preoccupied?

4. How did Watson know about Holmes's client named Barlow?

5. What misunderstanding did Holmes point out about Watson's deductions?

b Answer the questions

1. How did Holmes react when Watson deduced that he had a client named Barlow?

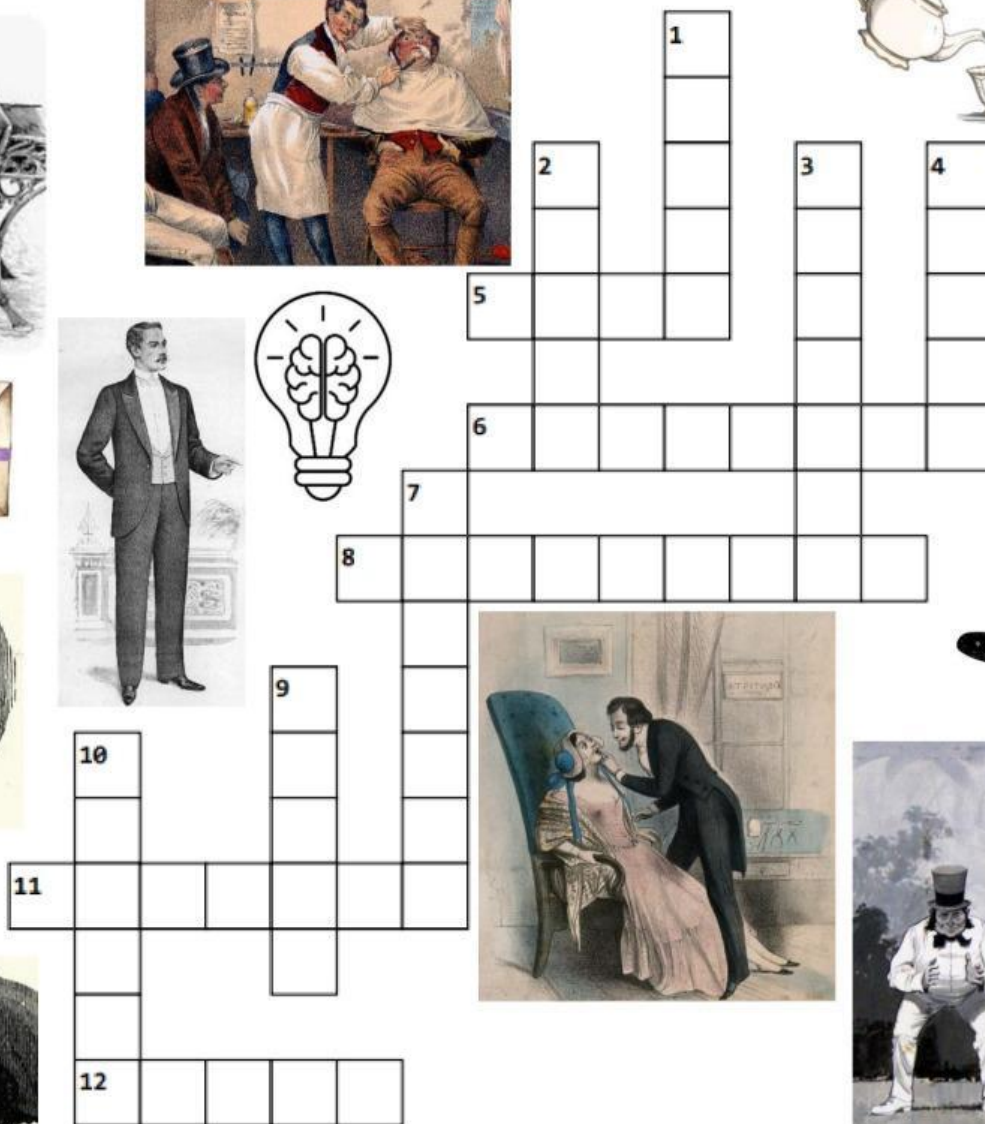

2. What did Watson notice about Holmes's clothing that indicated he was expecting an important visitor?

3. Why does Holmes consider Watson's deductions to be not as clever as he thought?

4. Imagine you are Watson. Write a short paragraph describing how you would feel after realizing that you made incorrect deductions about Holmes. What emotions would you experience, and how would you react to Holmes's comments?

5. Create a dialogue between Watson and Holmes where Watson tries to deduce something about Holmes's mood. Include at least three observations that Watson makes, and how Holmes responds to each.
