

WRITING AN ESSAY

Read the text and answer the questions below.

A young writer named Emily was struggling to complete her essay on the impact of social media on teenagers. She had been researching the topic for weeks, but she still couldn't seem to find a clear focus. She was overwhelmed by the vast amount of information available and felt like she was going in circles.

Emily decided to take a break and go for a walk. As she strolled through the park, she noticed a group of teenagers sitting on a bench, completely engrossed in their phones. It was a scene she had seen countless times before, but this time, it struck her differently. She realized that these teenagers were growing up in a world that was vastly different from her own. They had never known a time without social media, and it was shaping their lives in ways that were both positive and negative.

Inspired by her observation, Emily returned home and began to write. She focused on the ways in which social media had changed the way teenagers communicate, form relationships, and perceive themselves. She discussed the benefits of social media, such as connecting with people from all over the world and sharing ideas with others. However, she also explored the potential negative consequences, such as cyberbullying, addiction, and a distorted view of reality.

Emily's essay was a success. She received high praise from her teacher and her classmates. The experience had taught her the importance of observation, reflection, and finding a personal connection to her topic.
