Llewellyn and Gelert

Long ago there was a Prince of Wales. His name was Llewellyn. He had a dog called Gelert. One day, when Llewellyn and Gelert were hunting in the forest, the prince stopped. 'Look, Gelert,' he said. 'There's ¹ a deer standing near that small hut.'

Then he took his bow and arrow and he shot the deer. As he was picking up the deer to take it home, Llewellyn heard ² _____ horribly. He looked round. There was an ³ _____ behind him. She lived in the forest and people said that she was a witch. 'You've killed my deer,' she said angrily. 'You're happy now, Llewellyn, but you will die a sad and lonely man.' Suddenly, a cold wind started blowing and the old woman disappeared.

Llewellyn soon forgot the old woman's words, and a few years later, his life became even happier when his wife had a beautiful baby. Every night Gelert used to sleep by the fire and guard the baby's cradle. Llewellyn knew that his son was safe with the old dog there. One night, however, he suddenly woke up when he heard ⁴ _____ furiously. He jumped out of bed. By the light of the fire, he saw ⁵ _____ next to the cradle.

The cradle was upside down and there was ⁶ _____ from Gelert's mouth.

'What have you done to my son?' Llewellyn shouted. He grabbed his sword and killed the old dog. Then Llewellyn heard ⁷ _____ - he was alive! He picked up the cradle and he saw ⁸ _____ on the floor. It was a dead wolf. 'Oh, Gelert, my dear old friend,' cried Llewellyn. Suddenly, the prince felt ⁹ _____ in his face and he heard the old woman screaming at him again. From that night, Llewellyn never smiled again. He died, as the old woman said, a sad and lonely man.
