What is the comparison degree function!

The comparison degree function refers to the different levels or intensities used to compare adjectives or adverbs. In English, these degrees typically come in three forms:

1. Positive degree: The basic form of the adjective or adverb, showing no comparison.
  - Example: "She is tall."
2. Comparative degree: Used to compare two things, showing a higher or lower degree of a quality.
  - Example: "She is taller than him."
3. Superlative degree: Used to compare three or more things, showing the highest or lowest degree of a quality.
  - Example: "She is the tallest in the class."
