1) Read the text

Kieron Williamson often gets up early, paints outside and then goes home to work on his painting again. When he's painting, he doesn't think about anything. Now he lives in Cornwall (UK) and he's enjoying painting places there. He often goes back to Norfolk where he is from and paints there, too. Now that he's older, he enjoys painting for longer periods of time and sometimes he paints for up to nine hours a day. In his free time, he loves football and riding his bike.

It's a typical day for Kieron. His birthday is on 4th August 2002 so he's a young artist – but he's famous for his paintings and has got fans all over the world, including in Japan, New Zealand and the USA. He isn't studying art, but he's really good at it! Kieron works on his art most days and paints around 100 pictures a year, some big and some small. He usually paints places near his home and now he's working on paintings of people and animals, too. He's also trying different styles of art.

Every summer, he has an exhibition and sells his work. It's difficult choosing the 40 paintings for the show from all his work. Some people buy his paintings online after seeing photos of them. Small paintings cost around £3,500 and bigger ones can cost over £40,000.
