Prodigies around the World

Not only adults can invent things, teens can do it too. Many teens have already invented many amazing things at their young age. For example, Holly Cardew is a very successful businesswoman from Australia. She started selling handbags online when she was only 14 and still at high school. In 2015, she started her own company called PixC, which has customers in over 30 countries. Azza Abdel Hamid Faiad is another talented teen from Egypt. The young scientist invented a method to turn plastic into fuel and reduce waste when she was 16. After that, she travelled to the UK to do research with European scientists. Plastic waste is a problem in Egypt and many other countries, and her invention could help to solve this problem. It's clear that there are many amazing teens from around the world.
