Read the letter. Answer questions 15 to 16.

Dear Elisabeth,

I have just finished writing my first draft of the book report for our book club. The teacher told us it would be helpful if we read each other's reports and share feedback. She also mentioned that it would give us more ideas for the final draft. So I was wondering if we could read each other's book reports and share some ideas before the next class.

Let me know what you think about this. See you tomorrow at school.

Your best friend,
Rosa

15. Why did Rosa write a letter?

- (A) To ask Elisabeth to write a book report for her
- (B) To ask Elisabeth to share some ideas with her
- (C) To ask Elisabeth to return the novel she borrowed

16. What is true about Rosa?

- (A) She enjoyed reading Elisabeth's book report.
- (B) She is a member of a book club.
- (C) She didn't have enough time to complete her book report.

Read the letter. Answer questions 17 to 18.

Dear Grandpa,

Yesterday was Earth Day and I learned how to save the earth at school. I never knew that plastic didn't decay for so many years. I use PET bottles and paper cups every day, and now I realize I have been making so much waste every day. I also learned how to recycle, so I made this pretty postcard with a tissue box to write this message to you.

Christmas is coming soon, and I can't wait to visit you. See you soon.

Best wishes,
Helena

17. What did Helena learn yesterday?

- (A) How paper cups are made
- (B) How to protect the earth
- (C) How to make plastic bottles

18. What did Helena make?

- (A) A tissue box
- (B) A plastic bottle
- (C) A postcard

Read the instructions. Answer questions 19 to 21.

There are many ways to reduce, reuse and recycle to save our earth!

1. Bring your own bags instead of using plastic shopping bags when shopping at the supermarket.
2. Use rechargeable batteries.
3. Use your own reusable water bottle at school instead of using plastic PET bottles.
4. Turn the faucet off to not let the water run when you are brushing your teeth or rubbing your hands with soap.
5. Turn off the lights and pull out plugs when you are not using any electricity.
6. Recycle every day. Sort your paper, plastic, and glass waste.
7. Walk or ride a bike to reduce greenhouse gases. Walking or riding a bike can be good exercise, too.
8. Use a handkerchief or washable towels instead of paper towels or napkins.
9. Keep the temperature moderate. Using the air conditioner or heater too much requires a lot of energy.
10. Use your own mug or cup instead of paper cups.
11. Exchange unwanted items with your friends or sell them at a garage sale.
12. Use both sides of a sheet of paper. Many people use only one side of a sheet of paper and throw it away. You don't need new sheets of paper just to make some notes.

Read a story about Jeremy. Answer questions 22 to 25.

Jeremy's mom looked in the trash can. She saw all kinds of garbage in the can.

"Well, somebody didn't recycle," Jeremy's mom said.

"Jeremy, can you come down to the kitchen, please?" Jeremy's mom called.
• Jeremy.

"What's up?" Jeremy asked.

"Why don't you look in the trash can and tell me if you notice anything," said his mom.

Jeremy looked in the trash can and saw pieces of crumpled paper, a plastic PET soda bottle, some empty bags of potato chips, and wet tissues.

"I told you to sort the trash by plastic, paper and glass. The recycling boxes are right next to the trash can," his mom added.

"I'm sorry, Mom. I was busy playing with Sean at the playground this afternoon. I forgot and threw everything into the trash can," Jeremy replied.

"Recycling is very important. It is one way to save the earth. You don't want to live in a polluted environment for the rest of your life. It will harm your health," his mom said.

"OK, I will try to be more careful from now on," said Jeremy, and they started sorting the recyclable trash together.

Read a story about Mary. Answer questions 26 to 29.

"Mom, what is this worth?" Mary raised her arm so her mom could see the one-dollar bill in her hand.

"That's a one-dollar bill. I don't think I have taught you how to count money, have I?" asked Mary's mom.

"No, you haven't. Can you teach me how to count money today?" asked Mary.

"Sure. Do you see the numbers on these paper bills? If it says 1, it is one dollar. If it says 10, it is ten dollars," explained Mary's mom.

"OK. What about coins?" asked Mary, taking out all different sizes of coins from her pocket.

"Coins can be 1 cent, 5 cents, 10 cents or 25 cents. They have different names, too. A penny is 1 cent, a nickel is 5 cents, a dime is 10 cents and a quarter is 25 cents. Do you understand?" asked Mary's mom.

"The names for the coins sound new to me," said Mary.

"Why don't we do some practice? If I have two quarters, how much do I have?" asked Mary's mom.

"A quarter is 25 cents. So 25 cents plus 25 cents is 50 cents," said Mary.

"Very good. Now imagine I go to a supermarket and buy two bags of apples. One bag of apples costs 1 dollar and 50 cents. I have 10 dollars in my pocket. How much should I get for change?" asked Mary's mom.

Mary wrote down the number $10 and $1.50. Then she multiplied $1.50 by 2. Then she subtracted her answer from $10.

"Seven dollars!" exclaimed Mary.

"You got it. Counting money is not that hard, is it?" said her mom.

"No. Not at all!" replied Mary.

Read about how to write a newspaper article. Answer questions 30 to 33.

Writing an article for your school newspaper may seem difficult and boring, but it will give you an opportunity to learn about a variety of issues, meet and interview people from different backgrounds, and improve your writing skills. If you are interested but do not know where to begin, start by joining a journalism class or newspaper club. If your school does not have one, talk to your teacher for help starting one.

Start searching for new events or issues that have been brought up in school. For example, if the election for class president is coming up, interview the candidates and write about them. Even though you can write about anything for your school newspaper, you need to be responsible about what you write. You can be creative with your writing, but do not write about things that are too personal or mean to others. You must deliver facts and not rumors.

Try to stay focused on your topic so that your readers will understand your main point. Even if you are out of ideas and have a deadline, do not copy others' ideas. If you want to use an idea from someone else, you must refer to it. To make your article easier and more fun to understand, try to find a relevant picture or drawing to make your work more creative and visual.
