

You feel what you want it to be

The sun rises at departs at five

Ain't doing overtime no more

Because in thisof color

The brightest is plugged right into your wall

You think a little love is all you need

But love is such a..... thing, can't you see?

I think you'll find it sits in a book and

Changes the words that you

The man in the moon has a in the back of his head today

So dark is the as the old bridge of lovers

Finds its getting washed all away

There are wise men in the darkness of the desert

Still to be finding their way

The tables have been laid and the food has been served

But the cost of eating is too for most to pay
