York is a city in the north of England with a very interesting history. It started with the Romans nearly 2000 years ago, and it became an important centre during the Roman Empire. When the Vikings captured the city in the ninth century, they renamed it Jorvik, and, much later, King Richard II actually made York the capital of England. These days, York is much more peaceful. It is an easy and attractive city to get around, as the centre is surrounded by walls that you can walk along. It has lots of beautiful old buildings, such as York Minster, and many interesting museums. One of these, the National Railway Museum, has the finest collection of railway engines and carriages in the country. Not surprisingly, it is next to the railway station, which is outside of the city walls. If you get tired of streets and buildings, however, you can take a boat trip along the river for a few hours.

Who's afraid of camels?

Betty's brother, Paul, was on holiday and he wrote her a postcard from every place that he visited. He sent the first postcard from the Pyramids. After that, Paul went on a beautiful boat on a big river, and he sent a postcard of that, too. Next to the boat, Paul wrote, 'I went on this!' Paul's last postcard showed a man on a camel. 'I'd like to ride a camel, too,' thought Betty.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

At the weekend, Betty went to the zoo with her cousin, Emma. 'Let's go and ride on a camel like Paul did,' said Betty. 'No!' said Emma. 'They're too dangerous.' But when they got near the camels, they were lying down and Betty wasn't afraid. She climbed on the smallest one. Emma took a photo of her. 'You can show the picture to Paul,' she laughed.

A week later, Paul came home. Betty showed her brother the photo. 'Look at me on the camel!' she said. 'Did you enjoy riding camels, too?' 'I was too afraid,' answered Paul. 'You didn't ride on the camel? I don't believe it!' she shouted. 'No,' Paul explained to Betty. 'I only sent a postcard of someone else on one. I didn't ride it.' Betty laughed and said, 'Me too! I just sat on its back. It didn't stand up!'
