My Best Friends

I have two best friends, Sarah and Michael, and they couldn't be more different!

Sarah is incredibly outgoing and loves meeting new people. She always has a big smile on her face and makes everyone feel comfortable. She's also very generous—she's the kind of person who would give you her last piece of chocolate if you wanted it! However, sometimes she can be a little impulsive, making decisions without thinking too much about the consequences. Michael, on the other hand, is much quieter and more thoughtful. He always thinks before he speaks and is great at giving advice. He's very hardworking and spends hours studying because he wants to become a doctor. Michael is also extremely reliable—if he promises to do something, you know he'll keep his word. The only thing about Michael is that he can be a little shy in large groups, but once you get to know him, he's very friendly.

Even though Sarah and Michael are so different, I'm lucky to have both of them in my life. They balance each other out and make every day more fun!
