Find the main idea and theme of the story below.

Barry liked playing board games, but he didn't like losing. He disliked losing so much that he would do whatever it took to win, even breaking the rules. He'd steal money from the board game bank and hide it under the couch. He'd skip spaces while he was moving around the board. He would tell lies when playing and argue about it. Barry's techniques were effective. He did win most of the games that he played, but the people whom he played with were his friends and family, and it didn't take too long until they caught onto Barry's tricks. They tried to tell Barry to stop cheating. They said that the game wasn't any fun when he cheated, but he didn't listen. He continued with his dishonest style of gameplay, until nobody would play with him anymore. Barry may have won a lot of games, but at what cost?
