Some musicians can play two, three, or even four musical instruments. But one teenager in California can play 107! Neil Nayyar has instruments from Italy, China, India, and many other countries, and he can play them all. Nobody knows where Neil gets his musical abilities from. His parents can't play any instruments, and he doesn't have brothers or sisters to learn from. For some reason, Neil is just good at music. But it's not just luck. Neil practices a lot too—about six to eight hours a day! He has 78 music teachers from around the world. He can't visit them all, so he learns from them online. Neil loves music, but he has many other interests, too. He can paint and he's good at martial arts. He loves dancing, and he wants to learn singing and acting. So what's next for Neil? It's musical instrument number 108, of course!
