I can cook potatoes!

I can't cook difficult meals with lots of ingredients. But I can cook potatoes! Potatoes are a great vegetable. They're easy to cook and there are lots of ways to cook them. You can boil them and put butter on them. You can cut them up and fry them to make French fries. You can bake them and eat them with cheese. Very easy! English people and Americans eat a lot of potatoes, but my favorite potato recipe is from Switzerland. It's called rösti. It's easy and very quick – ten minutes! The ingredients are two potatoes and half an onion. Grate the potatoes and onion and mix in a bowl. Add salt and pepper. Squeeze out some water. Then put some oil in a frying pan. Add the potatoes and onion to the hot oil. After a few minutes, turn over the rösti and continue to cook. You can eat rösti with meat, eggs, or salad. You can put cheese in it, too! Delicious! Thank you, Switzerland!

Read the blog post again. Answer the questions.
