Your vs You're

These words are homophones. They sound the same, but they have different meanings and spellings. "Your" means it belongs to you. "You're" is a contraction that means "you" and "are". Fill in the blank with "your" or "you're. (Hint: Can you replace it with "you are"?)

I see house.

very brave.

That is mom.

Is this car?

taller than me.

Why is dog here?

LIVEWORKSHEETS