Danny at a football match

My name is Danny. I have been a football fan for a very long time. I really enjoy watching football on TV, but I'm also quite good at playing it – it's fun. But last Saturday, my dad took me to a real football match.

Because the stadium is quite close to our house, we decided to walk there. In the morning, the weather was wonderful: the sun was shining and it was very warm. But after lunch, dark clouds appeared in the sky.

My dad asked: 'Do you think there is a storm coming, Danny? Should we take the car?'

But I really love to get wet in the rain, so I said: 'It doesn't look like it's going to rain, let's walk!'

Just like I thought, the rain came ten minutes after we left the house. At first, I felt really excited. But a little later, we heard thunder. 'It can be dangerous to walk in a storm, Danny,' explained Dad. 'I'm afraid that we will have to wait somewhere until it ends.'

'We can't, Dad!,' I shouted. 'We're going to be late for the game!'

'I'm sorry, Danny,' said Dad. 'Don't be upset. Things like this happen. Here's a nice café we can stop at and have a hot chocolate.'

'I hope that this horrible storm is going to end soon!', I thought as I was drinking the chocolate. But it didn't.

We arrived at the stadium after the first half of the game.

That day I promised myself to always tell the truth. Lies get you in trouble!
