Two Brothers

Once Max and Sam who were two identical twins decided to play a prank on their friends at school. They exchanged clothes and went to school. The plan was simple: Max would pretend to be Sam, and Sam would pretend to be Max. Their classmates understood everything at once and laughed.

However, things became funnier when their Maths teacher, Mrs. Thompson, came in. Although she had taught them for years, she was bad at recognizing the boys' faces. Max, posing as Sam, raised his hand to answer a question. When he spoke with his brother's voice, Mrs. Thompson stopped him and asked in a puzzled voice, "Sam, when did you become so... expressive?" And Max answered, "Oh, Mrs. Thompson! I've always been this smart; you just didn't notice!" The whole class burst into laughing, and even Mrs. Thompson smiled.

At the end of the day Max and Sam left school with the widest smiles on their faces. Their funny joke became the talk of the school, proving that sometimes, laughter is the best trick of all!
