

Hogwarts' Famous sport

Hogwarts is a British boarding school of magic in Scottish Highlands.

In this school, witches and wizards learn how to use their magic correctly, using potions, spells, broomsticks, magical creatures and wands.

They also learn about Quidditch from Madam Hooch, a team game played by witches and wizards on flying brooms in a very big pitch.

There are seven players per team (three Chasers, two Beaters, a Keeper and a Seeker) and the best players get badges and trophies!

The game has many rules. Chasers shoot the Quaffle (the ball) into the other team's goal hoops to score points. The Keeper tries to stop the Quaffle from getting through the goal. Players dodge Bludgers, balls that are charmed to hit players. Players called Beaters hit Bludgers away with bats and they are very difficult to put back in the box.

The game ends when the Seeker player, normally the smallest player, catches a winged ball called the Snitch. The team of the Seeker who caught the Snitch gets 150 points.
