Relationships are fascinating. When you're in your teens, you often become _____ your favourite pop star, yet real, meaningful connections go much deeper. Take for instance my relationship with Renata. If I hadn't been so utterly _____ her, we would never have got married —she's my _____, with priorities that perfectly align with mine. Love has a way of striking unexpectedly, like when my sister Jenny fell _____ with Jamie the moment she saw him. The same can be said for friendships; I wasn't sure whether Anna and David would like each other, but they _____, surprising everyone just as my friends Mark and John did when they _____ so well. Deep friendships are just as special; growing up next door to Mark meant we became _____ as kids, and our bond has remained unshakeable ever since. I've always admired him; he's truly _____.
