The wolf and a baby boy

In the north of Wales, there is a small village called Beddgelert. According to an old story, many hundreds of years ago, a prince lived in the area. It was a place of forests and dangerous wild animals. The prince loved hunting, so he had lots of dogs. They spent a lot of time chasing animals through the forests for sport. His favourite dog was called Gelert – a faithful dog who the prince loved.

One day, the prince decided to go hunting and called for Gelert. To the prince's surprise, the dog came with blood around its mouth. The prince was horrified. Where had the blood come from? He had a terrible thought. He ran to his son's bedroom and saw an awful sight. His baby was missing and the floor was covered in blood. The prince realised what the dog had done. With anger, he took a sword and killed Gelert. Seconds later, the prince heard a cry from behind the bed. There was his son, completely safe. And next to his son was a wolf – killed by Gelert, just a few minutes earlier. The prince felt very sad. He carried his favourite dog outside and buried it under some stones.

Beddgelert means 'Gelert's grave' in the Welsh language, and you can see stones marking the grave in the village. However, the story might not be true. Some people say that a hotel owner placed the stones there 200 years ago and, perhaps, invented the story to bring in more tourists. And it worked! Now there are many events in the town, from music festivals to firework displays on New Year's Eve. In the summer, people in the town grow lots of flowers as decorations and Beddgelert has won competitions for being the most beautiful town in the country!

- 4 ★★★ Think of a folk tale from your country. Write a paragraph about it in your notebook.
