Ambitious teenagers?

We asked you to tell us about your ambitions, and we discovered that teenagers today really want to do well in life. Here are some replies below.

If I do well at school, I'll go to university. And if my grades are really good, I'll try to get into Harvard University in the USA. Harvard is famous for law but that's not what I want to study there. I'll probably do politics or business. I hope that one day I'll start my own company.

Hayley

I don't think I'll spend my life trying to be rich or famous. When I leave school, I'll train to do something that will help other people – a doctor, perhaps, or a charity worker. If it's important to go to university to qualify for a job, I'll do that, but I won't go to university if a qualification isn't necessary. I hope I'll change the world in a small way.

Richard

My love is music and I won't stop working hard until I become a professional musician. I learnt to play the guitar and violin when I was young and I'm sure I'll learn other instruments. I love the sound of the saxophone!
