Indicator in an Uptrend

This pattern starts with an upward movement, followed by a price retracement. Subsequently, the price resumes its upward target.

Price retracements play a key role in this pattern, as Entry and Exit points are determined using Fibonacci Ratios at these stages.

After the pattern is completed and confirmation from the indicator is received, the Buy signal (green arrow) is displayed.

GBP/USD Currency Pair

Indicator in a Downtrend

On the price chart of the AUD/USD pair, the Bearish Crab Pattern resembles the letter W. It usually starts with a corrective move in a downtrend.

After several price oscillations, the price reaches its peak, where the direction changes, and a sharp decline occurs. At this point, the indicator generates a Sell signal.
