Nightmare on Mount Aconcagua

Last week a team of eight people climbed to the top of Mount Aconcagua in the Andes. However, while they were climbing down, something terrible happened. The weather changed.

'We were climbing down when I saw a snowstorm coming,' says Jim Thorne, the climb leader. 'Snowstorms can be very dangerous.'

He wanted to get his team back to the campsite quickly but it was very difficult. 'Everyone was tired and cold and we were all walking very slowly. Don't forget, we all had heavy backpacks,' says Thorne.

They arrived at the campsite two days later. 'When I saw the campsite, I was very happy. But when I looked back and saw that there were only six of us instead of eight, I couldn't believe it!' says Thorne.

Unfortunately, Thorne and the others couldn't go back to find the two missing climbers because the snowstorm was very bad.

'Were they lost? Were they hurt? Were they alive or... dead? I didn't know. I just sat and cried,' says Thorne.

1. All the climbers climbed to the top of the mountain.
2. Jim Thorne and the other climbers got lost in the snowstorm.
3. Jim Thorne said, 'It was easy to get to the campsite.'
4. Six of the climbers didn't get to the campsite.
5. Thorne and the others went back to find the missing climbers.
