Cities are exciting places! They are full of amazing buildings, interesting people, and new things to learn. But they can also be crowded and have problems.

Millions of people around the world live in cities. This is more than half of the world's population! Many people move to cities for better jobs, schools, and opportunities. But big cities need a lot of resources like water, food, and electricity. This can be a problem, especially when many people live close together.

One challenge facing cities is providing clean air and water for everyone. Cars and factories can make the air dirty. Trash and sewage from the large number of people can pollute the water. Keeping cities clean and healthy is a big job!

Another challenge is getting around. With so many people, traffic can be slow! Cities need good transport systems like buses, trains, and bikes to help people navigate the city.

Even though there are challenges, cities can also be great places to live. They offer many opportunities and can be very diverse and exciting. By working together, people can make cities healthy, clean, and fun for everyone!

31. What is the main idea of the passage?

- A. Problems and benefits that cities of the world are facing.
- B. Problems that cities of the world are facing.
- C. Benefits that cities of the world have.
- D. Solutions to deal with challenges in cities of the world.

32. Why can providing clean air and water be a challenge for cities?

- A. Because there are not enough tall buildings to catch pollution.
- B. Because the large population leads to increased trash and sewage.
- C. Because cities lack access to natural resources like rivers and forests.
- D. Because people prefer driving cars instead of using public transport.

33. Which of the following is NOT mentioned as a problem faced by cities in the passage?

- A. Providing clean air and water for everyone.
- B. Managing heavy traffic congestion.
- C. Offering enough educational opportunities.
- D. Finding enough resources for a large population.
