KEGIATAN 1

pengenalan procedure text dan mendeskripsikan makanan favorit

It was Saturday morning. Raka wake up earlier than usual because he had a special plan: he wanted to cook breakfast for his little sister.
He walked to the kitchen, opened the fridge, and found some eggs, bread, cheese, and margarine. “Hmm... maybe I can make a sandwich!” he smiled.
He washed his hands, took two slices of bread, spread some margarine, added cheese, then toasted them in the pan. The smell was delicious! A few minutes later, his sister came to the kitchen and shouted, “Wow! That smells so good!”
Raka gave her the sandwich and said, “Enjoy your breakfast! I made it myself!”
Later, Raka thought, “If someone asked me how to make this sandwich, what should I say? Should I just say ‘I cooked it’? Or should I explain the steps one by one?”

THINK & SHARE

- Why do you think it's important to explain steps clearly when telling someone how to make something?
- Have you ever made something and explained it to a friend?

what is procedure text

Procedure text can be defined as a type of text that informs about how to do, make something, complete a job or activity in a step-by-step process.

For example :

- how to make a cake
- how to wash a cloth
- how to make a sandwich

One of the most common is a procedure text on how to make food and drinks

The purpose of procedure text is to explain how to make, do or operate something with step-by-step or clear and sequential instructions..

generic structure

- Title

The name of the activity or the thing to make.

- Ingredients/Materials

tools/materials that will be needed to make something in the English procedure text.

- Steps/Methods

is the part that contains the steps we have to do to make something according to the procedure text.

language features

- simple present tense

Procedure text must be written using Simple Present Tense. This is because the procedure text contains command sentences about how to make or do something.

- Imperative Sentences (Kalimat Perintah)

imperative sentences always start with verb 1 of an action verb or a verb that involves physical activity. So, we don't need to use a subject at the beginning of the sentence.

- Connectives* (Kata Penghubung)

connectives are used in a procedure text to connect the steps so that the list of instructions is coherent and easy to understand.

- Adverb* (Kata Keterangan)

adverbs are used to give a description of time. There are 2 types of adverbs used in procedure text :

Adverb of time

an adverb of time that indicates how long you have to do something.

Examples: in 10 minutes, for 1 hour.

Adverb of manner

a description of how to do something.

Examples: slowly, well, evenly.

Think & share

- Why do we need to follow steps when we make something?
- Have you ever given instructions to someone? What was it about?
- Can you name other things you can explain using a procedure text?
