Presentation

Compare active and passive structures below.

Active:

I sent the letter on Monday.

Passive:

The letter was sent on Monday.

In the active sentence the subject (I) causes an action (sent the letter).
In the passive sentence, the cause of the action is unknown or unimportant - we only say what happens to the subject (the letter).
The passive is formed with the verb be (is/are/was/were etc.) + past participle (e.g. sent)

If we want to say who or what causes the action in a passive sentence, we use by:

- The letter was sent by her father.
- He was hit by a motorbike.

If the verb in a passive sentence has two objects, we can begin with the second object or use to:

- Active: The company gave me a new phone.
- Negative: I was given a new phone. / A new phone was given to me.

We sometimes use get instead of be:

- He nearly got run over by a car.
- My phone got stolen yesterday.

Get is used mainly in informal or spoken English to talk about things that happen or change unexpectedly.
We cannot say, for example, she gets liked by everyone.

Dialogue

A: His car was sold yesterday.

B: Really? Who bought it?

A: I don't know, but he got paid a lot of money for it.
