The carrot originated in Afghanistan in approximately 900 A.D. At first, people used carrots for medicinal purposes, and then later as a food. Most people associate carrots with the color orange, but originally they were purple. There are also white, yellow, and even black carrots. People produced carrots in Europe from the 13th century. Many doctors at this time gave carrots to their patients. The Dutch developed the orange carrot in the 16th century in honor of the House of Orange, the Dutch Royal Family. This carrot became very popular because it had more taste. This is the carrot many people eat today. The carrot is now the second most popular vegetable in the world (after the potato). As well as being very tasty, carrots also have a lot of health benefits. They are very rich in antioxidants, vitamins, and fiber and contain a chemical called beta-carotene that helps prevent heart disease and cancer.
