READING

1 Read the article on positive thinking and check (✓) A, B, or C.

How to be an optimist

Do you think positively about things? I hope so because, if you do, you'll be more successful at work. Optimists can see new opportunities and can respond well to stressful situations. Or are you a negative thinker? I hope not. Studies show that pessimists have fewer friends and take longer to get better when they're sick. But there is good news. It is possible to change how we think. We asked three people for tips on how to be an optimist.

Amy: Write a positivity diary

We often remember the bad things that happen, but we forget the positive things. Write down five positive things every day in a special diary. These can be small things such as "A woman on the bus had bright red socks that made me happy," or bigger things like "I finished all my work today." At first, it can be hard to think of five things. But if you do it every day, I promise it will get easier. You can read the diary when you are feeling sad or depressed, and it will make you feel more positive. My diary has helped me to be more positive about my life and about the world around me.

Paul: Try a "digital detox"

Do you lie in bed at night thinking "I'll never get a promotion" or "I won't pass my English exam"? Try a "digital detox." Avoid screens for one hour before you go to bed. You can listen to music or read a book, but don't go online or use social media. You also need to make sure you can't see any screens in your bedroom at night – even your phone. Now my busy brain is “turned off” before bedtime. I sleep better and that means I work better during the day. As a result, I have less to worry about and I feel more positive.

Manos: Positive speaking

If you use positive language when you speak, you will think more positively. For example, don't say “Our vacation was a disaster.” Say “Next vacation, we're going to do things differently.” Don't say “I know I'll fail my exam.” Say “I'll try my best.” You can also give positive feelings as a gift to other people by saying nice things: “You look nice today.” “Congratulations! That's a great grade.” I use positive speaking all the time at school and also when I feel nervous, for example, at parties and when I meet new people. Try it – it works! Making other people feel good will cheer you up too.
