

Story (2)

- Q1 When I turned for work on my first day, the hotel had already been flourishing for 5 years.
(a) to (b) up (c) down (d) over
- Q2 They were so successful that they were even turning bookings.
(a) away (b) into (c) in (d) down
- Q3 In fact they were actually turning people.
(a) away (b) into (c) down (d) up
- Q4 Some people had turned on the off chance.
(a) away (b) up (c) into (d) to
- Q5 Most of the residents were elderly and so they all invariably turned early most evenings.
(a) down (b) over (c) in (d) into
- Q6 The waiting was done by me and Doris, who should have turned it years ago and by rights have been a guest herself because of the great age.
(a) to (b) away (c) into (d) in
- Q7 However, as she told me frequently, she had no intention of turning an old fogey herself.
(a) over (b) down (c) into (d) in
- Q8 I suppose breakfast is the most difficult task to turn your hand because there are so many variations of drink, cereal, egg and bread.
(a) down (b) to (c) over (d) in
- Q9 You had to stand there for ages while each guest made up their mind, turning the choices in their minds.
(a) down (b) over (c) in (d) into
- Q10 After a long wait like that very often they would simply turn everything and simply ask for a cup of tea.
(a) down (b) in (c) up (d) over