PART 3: READINGEar Reading

Reading people's character and health from their ears is a very old science. Ear readers believe that you can tell a lot about a person from the size, shape, and position of the ear. According to ear readers, all ears are different, and each characteristic of the ear has a different meaning.

The Chinese god of long life is Shou Xing. When you see an image of this god, he always has very big ears. According to ear readers, it is lucky to have big ears. It is a sign that you will live a long life and have a lot of good health and energy. People with large ears are also said to be risk takers. On the other hand, people with small ears are cautious and shy. They do not like to take risks or do dangerous things.

People with ears that stick out, or come out far from the side of the head, are said to be independent. Their ears show that they are focused forward and thinking about the future. Strangely, even though they have big ears, they tend to be people who don't listen to what other people have to say. They do not take advice and will only do what they want to do.

The height of the ear is important, too. An ear can sit high on the head, for example when the top of the ear goes above the top of the eyebrow. Or an ear can sit low on the head, and the bottom of the ear is below the bottom of the tip of the nose. People whose ears sit high on the head are said to be quick thinkers and smart. People whose ears sit lower on the head are patient, caring people, who often work well in teams.

A significant part of the ear is the earlobe. The lobe is the rounded bottom part of the ear that is soft and fleshy. There are two main types of earlobes. In some people, the lobes are attached to the side of the head. In other people, the lobes hang freely away from the head. Do you have attached or unattached earlobes? If you argue with people a lot, perhaps your earlobes are attached. If you like adventure, then your earlobes are probably unattached.

When reading ears, one thing is important to remember. Ears are the only part of the body that continues to grow throughout our lives, so you need to know the age of the person to read his or her ears properly. A very old person may not naturally have large ears, but have large ears because of his or her advanced age.
