Jack's good book

One day last week, Jack had to go to the shops with his mum after school. Jack had a very good book and he didn't want to stop reading it.

So Jack read his book and followed his mum into every shop. But when they went into the supermarket, Jack didn't see a banana that was on the floor and he stood on it and fell. He hurt his leg very badly. "I need to take him to the hospital," said Mum, and the woman from the supermarket phoned the hospital to get an ambulance.

Jack lay on the bed in the back of the ambulance and read his book. At the hospital they had to wait for a long time to see the doctor but Jack didn't mind because he could read his book.

Then the doctor told Jack, "Your leg is broken. You have to stay here for three more days."

"That's OK," said Jack.

Jack's parents went to visit him every day and the woman from the supermarket brought him some sweets. They were very surprised that Jack was so happy all the time.

Two days later Jack phoned his mum. "Can you come and get me?" he asked.

"What's the matter?" asked Mum.

"I've finished my book," said Jack, "and I need to go back to school to get another one!"

Katy starts school

My name is William and my sister's name is Katy. Monday was the first day of school after the holidays, so we got up at six o'clock. We put our new books into our rucksacks and I had breakfast. Katy couldn't eat any food because she was afraid of starting school. I said, "Don't be afraid, Katy, you will like going to school." Katy smiled, and held my hand.

The bus came early so we had to run to catch it. On the bus, we sat down and put our rucksacks on the floor. The bus started suddenly, and everything fell out of our rucksacks! There was a woman behind us, and she picked up one of our books. She read Katy's name on the front of it and then she smiled. She said, "Hello, Katy, I'm your new teacher. My name's Mrs Green." We were very surprised. Mrs Green asked Katy some more questions, and then in a few minutes we arrived at school. Mrs Gre said, "I'll see you in class, Katy," and Katy smiled a big smile. I asked Ka "Are you feeling afraid now?" and she laughed and said, "No! But there's just one problem – I'm hungry! Where's the school snack shop?"

I think that Katy will be happy in our school.

Sarah and William help their museum

Sarah has always wanted to be a photographer and her brother, William, wants to be a journalist. Their aunt came to visit them last Saturday and she gave Sarah a camera and William a tape recorder. Then they all went out to the town together.

Sarah took some pictures of lots of different people in the street.

When they came to the town's museum, they saw a lot of people in the street in front of it.

"What's the matter?" William asked some boys there. "The treasure that was in the museum is missing," said one boy. "A man came into the museum and stole it a few minutes ago and now everyone is looking for him," said another.

"What does he look like?" asked Sarah.

"They don't know, but he had a big red rucksack."

Then Sarah remembered her photos. She looked at the pictures in her camera and she saw one of a man who came out of the museum with a red rucksack on his back. William remembered that the man ran and jumped on the number 14 bus.

Sarah showed her picture to a policeman, and William told him about the bus.

The next day Sarah's photo was in the town's newspaper with a story that William wrote. It was about the policeman finding the treasure on the bus.

It's now back in the museum.
