Sample answer:

Last month, I went to a modern art exhibition at the Cultural Center. It was just fascinating! What I particularly loved was the photography section — the photos were so emotional and thought-provoking.

I also liked the way the rooms were organized. Each one had a different theme and mood, and the lighting really helped to create an atmosphere. For me, the highlight was an interactive installation where you could actually walk through the artwork. It was really inspiring. But not everything was great. I wasn't that impressed by the video art at the end. It was a bit too weird for my liking and didn't really live up to my expectations.

Still, the exhibition was well worth visiting. I'd definitely recommend it to anyone interested in modern or contemporary art.
