

Canadian Teen Beats Tennis Legend to Win US Open

On September 7, 19-year-old Bianca Andreescu became the first [redacted] tennis player to win a Grand Slam singles title. Andreescu beat [redacted] legend Serena Williams in two straight sets to win the US Open [redacted]. Before this season, Andreescu was practically an unknown. She did not even qualify for last year's US Open. Three years ago, the young tennis player wrote a pretend cheque to herself for winning the US Open. On Sunday, she [redacted] her real prize money of over five million Canadian dollars. Andreescu's win is being celebrated as one of Canada's most historic [redacted] wins.