A STRANGE NIGHT

Last Saturday night, Tom was walking home after visiting his friend. It was about 10 p.m., and the streets were almost empty. As he was walking past a small supermarket, he heard a loud noise coming from inside.

Tom stopped and looked through the window. He saw a man wearing a black jacket running out of the supermarket. The man was carrying a large bag. A few seconds later, the shop assistant ran outside and shouted, "Stop! He has stolen money from the shop!"

Tom immediately called the police. He told them what he had seen and described the man's clothes. The police arrived about ten minutes later, but the thief had already disappeared.

The next morning, the police checked the security cameras in the supermarket. They found a clear picture of the thief. Later that day, they arrested a man who lived near the supermarket. He was carrying the same black jacket that Tom had described.

The police found the stolen money in his bedroom. The shop assistant identified him as the man she had seen that night. The thief finally admitted that he had stolen the money because he needed money to pay his debts.
