

Read the article below

Friendship Day is a special day for friends. On this day, you can share your feelings for your friends in many different ways such as through wishes, text messages, or phone calls. You could tell your friends how much you care for them. Friendship Day is also a good day to recollect sweet memories and to spend time together.

True friends are the people whom you can share your happiness and sorrow with. True friends will always support you in difficult times. You will never feel alone when your true friends are with you.

Complete the mind map below

