The following drag and drop exercise will explain the benefits of Backwards Design of your Unit Plans.

Backwards design of Units enables us to:

- let the learning goals determine the _____
- plan Units that provide ample _____
- make sure that every step of the process is a 'stepping stone' evidence that the learning goals have been achieved.

_____

that contributes to achieving the student's learning goals.

language activities as well as formative and summative assessment.

LIVEWORKSHEETS