

Verb to be

"Am," "is," and "are" are forms of the verb "to be." They are used to describe the state or condition of a person, place, thing, or idea.

am is are

"Am" is only used with the pronoun "I."

"Is" is used with one person, thing, or idea.

"Are" is used with plural subjects and "you."

Write the form of the verb to be that's fitting to each sentence.

Hi! My name ___ Sarah, and I ___ 7 years old. Today, the weather ___ nice and sunny. My friends and I ___ going to the park. We ___ excited because the park ___ big and fun. There ___ swings, slides, and lots of space to run. My brother ___ coming with us too. He ___ always happy when we go to the park. My mom ___ packing lunch for us, and I ___ helping her. We ___ ready for a fun day!

Relate the verb with the correct form of the verb to be.

1. I ___ a good student.

AM

2. He ___ very smart.

IS

3. The flowers ___ beautiful.

IS

4. The dog ___ very cute.

IS

5. We ___ going to the park.

ARE

6. They ___ playing outside.

ARE

7. You ___ very kind.

ARE

8. The books ___ on the table.

ARE

9. They ___ my neighbors.

ARE

10. The cake ___ delicious.

ARE

