Steve Jobs is born in San Francisco. He is a baby when he is adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Jobs. Steve is interested in how things are made, and has a great time. He works with his dad in the garage. He doesn't like school. He thinks school is boring! He joins a club for curious kids run by an electronics company. He loves walkie-talkies and instant cameras. His favorite thing is a computer. It is huge. He spends the whole summer at the electronics club. He learns everything about computers. He talks about electronics for hours. In high school, some people thinks Steve is a nerd. Steve doesn't want to go to the university. He takes classes that interested him, like calligraphy. He saves money and takes a long trip to India. He practices meditation. Steve goes to see his friend Woz. Steve thinks everyone should have a computer at home. They start a business together. Steve has the idea to make computers simple and easy to use. He has the courage "to follow his intuition".
