Last Saturday Brigit and I <sup>1</sup> were to meet up (meet up)
in town and join the anti-war demonstration. She <sup>2</sup> _____ (supposed to call) from the station but she didn't. I waited an hour then I decided I <sup>3</sup> _____ (will not stay) any longer. However, just as I <sup>4</sup> _____ (about to leave) another friend shouted my name. I didn't know he <sup>5</sup> _____ (going to be) there. Anyway, we decided we <sup>6</sup> _____ (will join) the march.
Then two minutes later I saw my brother and his girlfriend.
I had no idea they <sup>7</sup> _____ (going to demonstrate) either. Ten minutes after that, I saw Brigit.
Apparently, she <sup>8</sup> _____ (just going to call) me when I spotted her. There were two million people on that march. It's hard to believe that the five of us <sup>9</sup> _____ (will bump) into each other, but we did!
