LIVEWORKSHEETS

I Read the passage and decide whether the following statements are True (T) or False (F).

In the past, life was markedly different from what it is today. People lived simpler and more connected lives, often deeply rooted in their local communities. Let's take a closer look at some aspects of life in the past.

In many cultures, family traditions and customs played a significant role in daily life. These traditions were passed down from generation to generation, shaping the values and behaviors of individuals within the community. Family gatherings and celebrations were common, fostering a strong sense of unity within the extended family.

Education, too, differed from what it is today. Formal education was not as widespread, and children often helped their families with agricultural or household chores. Learning was primarily centered around practical skills and hands-on experience, often passed down through apprenticeships and familial teachings.

The role of women in society was also different. Traditionally, women were responsible for managing the household and nurturing the family, while men often took on the role of the primary breadwinner.

As we reflect on life in the past, it's important to appreciate the customs and traditions that have shaped our present. Understanding our heritage allows us to gain insight into the values and beliefs that have been passed down for generations.

1. People in the past generally had a strong connection to their local communities. _____
2. Family traditions and customs had little impact on daily life in the past. _____
3. Learning in the past was often based on practical skills and hands-on experience. _____
4. Children in the past often helped with chores on the farm or at home. _____
5. The author suggests that understanding the past is not important for understanding the present. _____

LIVEWORKSHEETS

II Read the passage and choose the correct answers.

English is one of the most widely spoken languages in the world. Many people learn English to communicate with others from different countries. It is an important language for business, travel, and education.

As I started learning English, I found it challenging but interesting. My teacher encouraged us to practice every day because it helps us improve communication quickly. We often use English to watch movies and to listen to music. This makes learning fun and effective.

In many countries, students study English in school because it is part of their curriculum. People know that speaking English can open up many opportunities. For example, if you want to study abroad, knowing English is essential. Many universities require students to pass an English test before they can enroll.

English is also the language of the Internet. As more people use the Internet to connect with others, knowing English becomes more useful. We often use social media to keep up with friends and news from around the world.

Learning English can be difficult, but it is worth the effort. It allows us to explore new cultures and to make new friends. The more we practice, the better we get.

1. Which statement is true, according to the passage?
   A. English is not widely spoken around the world.
   B. English is important for business, travel, and education.
   C. Learning English is always easy and straightforward.
