

BEHIND THE SCENES

Passive voice

You are preparing a Behind the Scenes article for Spotlight TV. Your readers want to know how the movie was made, but remember — in magazines, the passive voice is often used to make it sound more objective and official. Rewrite the sentences below in the passive voice, as if you were a real film reporter.

1. Steven Spielberg directed E.T.
2. A famous designer created the costumes.
3. They recorded the soundtrack in London.
4. The production team built the sets in three months.
5. They invited journalists to the press conference.
