If you adapt to something, you figure out how to deal with it.

Denying something means not believing that it's true.

If you do something on command, you do it because you were told to

If you have accepted a situation, you understand that it can't be changed.

If you comfort someone, you say or do things to make the person feel better.

Obstacles are objects that make it hard to get where you want to go.
