Last weekend I went (1)_____ La Piazza, a new Italian restaurant in the city centre. The place is modern but comfortable, with soft lighting and friendly staff. When we arrived, the waiter greeted (2)_____ politely and showed us to our table straight away. The menu was quite varied, offering everything (3)_____ pizzas and pasta to fish and meat dishes.

For a starter, I ordered a tomato and mozzarella salad, (4)_____ was fresh and tasty. My friend chose the garlic bread, which was delicious although a little too oily. For the main course, I had a seafood risotto. It (5)_____ cooked perfectly and full of flavour, but the portion was slightly smaller (6)_____ I expected. My friend's pizza, on the other hand, was huge, with a thin base and plenty of cheese.

The service throughout the evening was efficient and the staff seemed genuinely helpful. The prices (7)_____ reasonable considering the high quality of the food. Overall, I would definitely recommend La Piazza to anyone looking for a pleasant dining experience in (8)_____ city.
