Name   :

Class   :

Text 1

To be a foreign student in another city or country can change our life in many aspects. Living in a city far away from home can bring many consequences and effects which can change a student's form of life.

When we become a foreign student, many things change or have to change. We do not live with our family, so usually we have to learn how to live harmoniously with others. Being a foreign student makes us learn a lot of things, but at the beginning it can be a difficult problem for us.

That is why the purpose of this paper is to discuss the three main effects of being a foreign student.

The first effect that we have to realize is the fact that we do not live with our parents and in our house. It means that we will not enjoy its commodities. It is so good when our mother cooks for us, and when the house maid neatens our bed. Our father takes us to school.

When the class is over, we return to our room and make ourselves completely comfortable. But becoming a foreign student implies that we will live in a dormitory or that we will rent an apartment.

Usually we have to take care of dirty dishes, messy rooms, and cooking. This means we have to learn something new, like how to cook several dishes. In a few words, we have to learn how to be independent.

Another effect is that we have to find our way around the city, so we have to know the main parts of the city. If we have a motor cycle, it will be easier to explore the city. We can just get lost and see where each street takes us, and then find a way back home.

But if we do not have a motor cycle, we need to learn how to get around on foot, by bus or taxi. For these, we may find out about bus routes or find out how much cost to use taxi. But by these cases, we can plan the time when it take us to get out from our house to school.

This will force us to plan our time better or we will have less available time along the day. This may decrease the time we have to do our homework or to hang out with our friends. But over the time, we learn how to plan our activities in a better way in order to waste our time to do a useless activity.

A foreign student may also find himself feeling somewhat lonely, since arriving in a new city means we don't recognize everyone. It is lucky if our friend from our city comes, but usually we are alone.

It is important to start meeting people and making a friendship immediately. In this way it will be much easier to get used to being a foreign student. We will have many new friends who accompany us in our new life. Besides we will not have to be quiet all the time in classes like when we do not know someone else.

Sometimes our friends can help us in a lot of situations such as when we have problems about running out of money or when we need to get something that is not easily found. But most of that, with our friends we can have a great time and learn a lot of things.

Leaving our house and going to another city to study is an experience in our life that cannot be compared to any other experience in our life. We learn how to be independent, and we get to meet tons of people.

It may be somewhat difficult to live without our parents and in another city, but this makes us learn how to live our life better and how to appreciate what we have.

Besides, we have to appreciate the things we achieve during our life because we learn that our goals are not achieved easily, but they cost a lot of work and effort. In conclusion, being a foreign student is great.

1. Based on the text what make different to be a foreign students?
   A. To be wait for by our family
   B. Be a happy students
   C. Always in bad condition
   D. We will live in a dormitory or that we will rent an apartment.
   E. Can't reached their own dreams because there is no good support system
2. How many effects of being a foreign student that discussed in the text?
   A. Two effects
   B. Four effects
   C. Five effects
   D. Three effects
   E. One effects
3. What is the text talking about?
   A. Different life style
   B. Life in another country
   C. Leaving our house
   D. Meet another people
   E. To be a foreign students

Text 2

Plastic recycling is the process of recovering scrap or waste plastics and reprocessing the material into useful products, sometimes completely different in form from their original state. Typically a plastic is not recycled into the same type of plastic, and products made from recycled plastics are often not recyclable. When compared to other materials like glass and metal materials, plastic polymers require greater processing to be recycled. Plastics have a low entropy of mixing, which is due to the high molecular weight of their large polymer chains. When different types of plastics are melted together they tend to phase-separate, like oil and water, and set in these layer.

4. What is plastic recycling mean?
   A. The process of how to make a bottle of plastic.
   B. The process of recovering scrap or waste plastics and reprocessing the material into useful product.
   C. The way to collect plastics.
   D. Step to selling plastics' product.
   E. steps to reduce the plastics
5. Is plastic recycled into the same type of plastic?
   A. No, it isn't.
   B. Yes, it is.
   C. No, it doesn't.
   D. Yes, it does.
   E. Yes, it is not.
6. What's kind of plastic that require greater processing to be recycled?
   A. bottle plastic
   B. bag plastic
   C. plastic polymer
   D. plastic
   E. bottle

Text 3

Technology development goes along with the development of the world. Currently the technology is growing very rapidly, especially the development internet. Almost all of areas of the world such as industry, business, education, entertainment, etc. use the Internet as media to help their works.

Internet has a variety of functions such as communication functions, data exchange, source of media information and much more. One of the functions which used by internet user the most is internet as source of media information.

By using internet, they can get information quickly and easily. Nevertheless, the ease of information that can be obtained from the internet gives a positive and negative impact for users of the Internet itself. Here are the positive and negative impacts posed by the Internet that can be perceived by the consumer.

There are so many positive impacts which can be felt by internet users such as: Internet users can get the information easily and quickly. By simply entering a keyword in the search engines, they will get what they are looking for.

Internet users can also view location that wanted to see and very far without going to the location. This function can be obtained by using features such as Google earth.

Moreover, Internet can be used by employers as media promotion. They can introduce their products for free and easily on the internet. Internet users especially students also can get so many references from books and material which is available on internet for free.

There are so many sites that provide a wide range of references such as scientific journals, Wikipedia and many more. And the last, internet users can find out about the world and interact with all of the world's population using social media such as Facebook, twitter and others.

Besides having a positive impact, the Internet also has some negative impact for its users such as: the freedom of information that can be obtained on the internet can be abused by its user. They use internet to open the forbidden sites such as pornography, gambling and others. These sites are accessible to people of all of ages whenever and wherever. Internet also can be used by people who are not responsible for hacking into secret archives in cyberspace. Commonly the perpetrators of these crimes are called hackers. They can even disrupt a country just by using the Internet.

In addition, Internet also can make most of students lazy to think about their task given by teacher because almost all of lessons they can get on the internet. Internet also decreases the role of library in real life.

Library which is used as a place to read and find information is no longer used. Today students prefer using internet by accessing online media or references that they can get on the internet.

From the short discussion above, we can conclude that internet has a positive and negative side that could impact its users. Therefore, by seeing the impacts caused by the Internet, users have to be smart in using the Internet. We do not abuse the wealth and freedom of information contained in the internet technology to do something negative.

7. What is the text talking about?
    A. Information contained in the internet
    B. Internet technology has some negative effect
    C. The advantages of internet
    D. Internet connecting people
    E. Positive and negative impact of the internet
8. What are the positive impacts of the internet based on the text?
    A. Internet has a variety of functions
    B. Internet has some impacts
    C. Internet users can get the information easily and quickly. By simply entering a keyword in the search engines, they will get what they are looking for.
    D. have to be smart in using the Internet
    E. internet is used as a place to read

Text 4

Bullying has emerged as a critical issue in schools and communities worldwide. It involves repetitive aggressive behaviors that aim to harm or intimidate an individual who is perceived as weaker. This issue deserves our almost attention due to its severe consequences on both the victim and the bully. Addressing bullying is not only crucial for the well-being of students but also for fostering a safe and conducive learning environment. One significant reason to combat bullying is its detrimental impact on victims. Victims often experience emotional distress, anxiety, and depression. The continuous fear of being targeted can result in low self-esteem and reduced academic performance. In extreme cases, bullying has led to tragic outcomes like self-harm and suicide.

By addressing bullying, we can protect the mental and emotional health of students, ensuring they have the opportunity to thrive in a positive atmosphere. Furthermore, bullying also has long-term consequences for the bullies themselves. Engaging in aggressive behavior at a young age can normalize violence as a means of problem-solving. Bullies are at risk of continuing these behaviors into adulthood, affecting their relationships and overall well-being. Intervening in their behavior early on can break this cycle and guide them towards healthier ways of interacting with others. Schools should take a proactive role in preventing bullying. By implementing comprehensive anti-bullying programs, educational institutions can raise awareness about the issue and teach students empathy, respect, and conflict resolution skills. Teachers and staff should be trained to identify signs of bullying and provide appropriate support to both victims and bullies.

Additionally, fostering an inclusive school culture where differences are celebrated can discourage bullying based on factors like appearance, ethnicity, or abilities. In some cases, bullies may come from challenging backgrounds themselves, such as experiencing abuse or neglect at home. This doesn't excuse their behavior but highlights the need for a holistic approach. Schools should collaborate with families, offering counseling and resources to address the underlying issues that might contribute to a child's aggressive behavior. This approach not only benefits the individuals involved but also helps build stronger communities.

In conclusion, tackling bullying is an essential undertaking that requires the cooperation of schools, families, and communities. By doing so, we can protect the mental and emotional well-being of students, break the cycle of aggression, and create a nurturing environment where everyone can thrive. It's our collective responsibility to address bullying and ensure that every student has the right to learn and grow without fear.

9. How school protect the students avoid from bullying?
   A. we can protect the mental and emotional health of students.
   B. By implementing comprehensive anti-bullying programs, educational institutions can raise awareness about the issue and teach students empathy, respect, and conflict resolution skills.
   C. One significant reason to combat bullying is its detrimental impact on victims.
   D. fear of being targeted can result in low self-esteem and reduced academic performance.
   E. bullying has led to tragic outcomes like self-harm and suicide.
10. What is the impact of bullying?
    A. Students health
    B. Students brain
    C. Students mental-health
    D. Students attention
    E. Students focus
11. The continuous fear of being targeted can result in…
    A. need for a holistic approach
    B. low self-esteem and reduced academic performance.
    C. break the cycle of aggression.
    D. emotional well-being of students.
    E. challenging backgrounds themselves.