

Adolescence is a difficult phase of any young person's life which is exacerbated if a youngster is "different" in any way. Discuss some of the problems faced by those who display any obvious differentness and suggest moves which could be made to relieve them.