Eliza's Choice

Eliza loves her job as a vet, but she didn't always want to be one. Her parents lived on a farm and Eliza looked after the animals when she was young. She also had a part-time job in the pet shop where her mother worked. She dreamed of working at a zoo.

Things changed when she was 18. In her final exams, Eliza did very well in science. She also read an article about becoming an engineer. She decided she wanted to design buildings and bridges. The problems began when she started university in London. She liked being in a big city and she had a lot of friends, but she didn't enjoy her course.

After a month, Eliza left university. First, she went to France with friends. Then she went home to the farm and that's when she decided to become a vet. So she went to Bristol University and did a different degree – to become a vet.

She started her own business with a friend and they are doing very well. But for Eliza, the job isn't about money. It's about doing the job she loves.
